FADE IN:

EXT. ARID MOUNTAINOUS DESERT - DAY

RICK BROOKS, 28, races on foot along the dry, cracked ground.

Suddenly an explosion rocks him to the left, but he rolls with it and pushes himself on, faster, harder than before.

Multiple smaller explosions perforate the ground behind him. Someone or something clearly wants Rick dead.

RICK (V.O.)
I don't carry weapons.

Rick runs fast, quickly approaching a cliff with a devastating, vertigo-inducing drop. Shots ring past his face.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
Don't need 'em.

Rick brazenly jumps off the cliff with a beautifully-executed swan dive.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
I can't fly.

He presses his arms tightly to his sides, achieving perfect aerodynamic posture, as the something that was chasing him makes it's way to the edge of the cliff.

A gruesome nine-foot-tall BEAST carrying a weapon not-of-this-earth skids to a halt. It becomes clear we're not in the Mojave. Nowhere near.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
I'm not invincible.

Rick rockets head first towards the ground.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
But, I'm not defenseless.

He sees another BEAST patrolling the base of the cliff that he's hurtling towards.

It's of supreme luck that this beast below doesn't see him.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
I have one very specific ability that makes me the most sought-after sucker in the universe.

In a flash of light, Rick disappears, leaving a swirl of particles that rush to occupy the empty space he left in his wake.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
I can control. I can... become.

The beast at the bottom of the cliff gets knocked uncomfortably off its stance by an invisible force.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
Think of it like hot-wiring a car.

The beast regains its balance.

Rick, now in complete control of the beast, looks down at his hands holding his own very menacing firearm.

He looks up to the top of the cliff and performs a very arrogant salute at the other nine-foot-tall beast who now stands there, confused.

Rick, as the beast, then turns and casually saunters off in the other direction. Throwing his gun over his shoulder triumphantly.

A smile creeps across the beast's face as he walks.

RICK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
(smugly)
Sure beats waiting tables.

SMASH TO TITLE CARD.

FADE OUT.
